LOST PACKER VEIN IS STRONG AS EVER

Tunnel to Tap It at 1,000.

That the vein of high-grade copperbrief vacaton during the dull season at depth is particularly important for Columbus held their own.

the reason that between the depths of Strength of the leaders v 450 feet and 550 feet was encountered a relatively lean zone, and it was feared that the values might "pinch"

But it has been proven that the reduction of values for the distance of 100 feet on the vein was purely a local condition due to some freak of formation which has not been fully explained. The vein upon its downward course is broken by a series of dikes. It was broken by a series of dikes. It was broken by a series of dikes. broken by a series of dikes. It was in the space between two of those diker that the lean place occurred. Restoration of the values when the lower of the two dikes was passed was as abrupt as was their loss when the upper one was encountered. And upon the 600, the 700 and the 800 levels, as well as in a winze which has been sunk 55 feet below the 800 level, the values are found to be regular at the high average of the ore in the upper levels. The ore is almost pure chalcopyrite, and the values run 15 per cent cop-per, $50 in gold and 8 ounces in silver

A tunnel is now being driven to tap the vein at the depth of 1,000 feet, and the level of the tunnel will be 40 feet higher than the ore bins at the smelter. May Ship Its Ore.

With the building of the extension from Salmon City of the Pittsburg & Gilmore railroad, the distance to railroad from the Lost Packer mine will be reduced from 150 miles to 25 miles. It is not yet known whether the ex-tension will be completed in time to give the mine the benefit of the im-proved transportation facilities the coming season; in the event that it is, the company may ship its ore rather than to make a smelter run. The Lost Packer's matting plant is a complete success, metallurgically, but the cost of coke laid down at the plant is so great that it may be more profitable to ship the ore than to operate the Preparations Under Way to Work Placer Beds on Large Scale.

Preparations are being made by the Loon Creek Placer Mining company, of which John P. Boyle, manager of the Lost Packer mine, and Frank Judge of this city are leading interests, to work the placer beds of Loon Creek district, Idaho, upon an elaborate scale. Flumes and ditches two miles long, which will give a head of 200 feet, are being constructed, and it is the intention to install two hydraulic stants. The flume is stall two hydraulic glants. The flume is being made large enough to carry the greater portion of the water from Loon creek, that the bed of the creek may be worked. Working thus from bank to bank will afford a width of about 1,000 feet of excellent placer ground.

Prospecting the ground extensively with a small glant machine has shown that the dirt yields from 25 cents to 40 cents a square yard, while the bed of the creek is known to contain the richest ground of all. Some famous nuggets were taken from the creek in the old days of placer mining in that region—the obtaining of 300 in gold from a single pan of dirt be ing well authenticated.

Ing well authenticated.

The situation is unusually favorable for placer mining by modern methods, with success reasonably well assured. There is a great extent of virgin ground proven to be rich, the supply of water is plentiful, lumber is sawed at the near-by mill of the Lost Packer company, and the working season is from May 1 to December 1. The altitude of the creek is little more than 5.000 feet, although the Lost more than 5,000 feet, although the Lost Packer mine is 2,000 feet higher.

EAST TINTIC MINE IN POSITION TO SEE PROFIT

Eureka, March 25.—The winze connecting the 230 and 330-foot levels of the East Tintic Development mine broke through last night, and today the broke through last night, and today the men are busy putting in a chute to handle the ore. This means that cheaper stoping can be done at the mine and some profits should be made. The company has been paying its way for more than a year, and doing a large amount of development work, besides paying for excellent equipment which has been installed. has been installed.

Much better silver values are being obtained on the lower levels. Above the 250 level silver ran from 2 to 4 ounces, and from that to the 330 the values have run about 10 to 20 ounces. Within thirty days the company will resume sinking the shaft. It is down 500 feet, and will be pushed another 100 feet without delay.

Challenge Claim, Adjoining the Cumberland, Is Their Latest Purchase.

Ely, Nev., March 25.-With the expectation of concluding a deal for the sale of the Challenge claim, adjoining the Jupiter mine of the Cumberland Ely company, to the Cole-Ryan interests, Newton Boyd, one of the pioneers of the district, arrived last night from Battle Mountain, where he has large mining interests.

"A new gold camp known as Kimberley has sprung up about eighteen miles from Battle Mountain, and I believe it has a great future. The camp already has a weekly newspaper and all kinds of business houses. A mill has been con-structed by a Chicago company, but has not been started because of the non-arrival of certain machinery." Mr. Boyd enjoys the distinction of hav-ing been interested in the first group of copper claims ever sold in the district.
They are included in the original holdings of the Nevada Consolidated at Copper Flat.

It is a fact that the exchange which first secures the listings and the transfer offices of the leading companies of the new camp is likely to hold the bulk of the business. Salt Lake is the natural center for the Jarbidge business, and it should not permit the Goldfield experience to be repeated.

Already a move has been made to list on the New York curb the leading Jarbidge companies—the Bourne, the Bunker Hill and the Times and the found, he says, one opening forty feet across and several feet deep which is all in ore. Another space twenty-four feet square, some distance away, shows the same condition, while a number of open cuts covering a large area show that the deposit must be of vast extent; indications are that it is 600 feet wide and at least as long as it is wide.

In the Beehive group of claims on Lake mountain, just west of Utah lake, George E. Hemphill of this city, James Chipman of American Fork and associates believe that they have the making of a large mine. Lies Between Dikes.

The deposit apparently lies between two parallel dikes, one of porphyry, the other monzonite, which cut northeast and southwest through the great limestone and quartite. A shaft sunk 100 feet in an enormous fron blowout covering the vein is in material which carries small values in silver, lead, copper and gold, besides the heavy iron contents. A smelter has offered $4 a ton for the iron alone contained in the ore, and, as the property is only a half mile from railroad, it is believed that profitable production could be made.
